Great attention is given by the authorities at New York and other seacoast cities to the physical condition of emigrants and emigrant-carrying ships, with a view to the prompt arrest of this dread invader. But it should be remembered that the great cholera epidemic of 1832 came United States by way of Quebec in Canada, and that of 1849 came into the western states through the city of New Orleans. In whatever way it may appear at this juncture it may be safely assumed that this disease, which born of fiith and filthy habits of living in closely packed tenement houses, can never prevail to any alarming extent in a city so clean and thoroughly ventilated as this."

Hatton, J. M. Kendrick H. S. Stow, J. Bier and J. R. Edelin. Mr. J. M. Kendrick, master-at-arms, introduced Mr. address. Mr. Shannon showed his experience as a public speaker by his bold and fluent manner and earnest method. Among other things he said that chivalry was not a memory; that heroes were not all sepulchered in history and did not live solely in the romance; that human greatness was not all told in epitaphs; that gallantry thrived as vigorously in the nobility of nature as in that of birth; that titles were not descriptive of greatness; that courage was not measured by uniforms and that knightliness was not a question of attire and accounterments. He drew a parallel between mediaval and modern chivalry to the advantage of the latter. He had the undivided attention of the throng.

The coronation ball was held in the pavilion at 9 o clock. In the professional class Knight of Fair View crowned Miss Nellie E. JOHN FRANKLIN'S SUICIDE. He Thought His Wife Was Tired of Him and Hung Himself.

John Franklin, a tailor who lived at No. 1407 H street northeast, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by hanging himself from a small gard to the advance of the Asiatic cholera west- hook screwed in the ceiling of the rear secondstory room. The cause of his act was an imagination on his part that his wife was tired of him. The deceased had two tailoring and scouring establishments, one at his residence and the other on 7th street northeast. His wife had charge of the latter place.

Last evening when Mrs. Franklin returned home she noticed something strange in the general appearance of things about the house. The doors and windows were all fastened, and when she entered the front door she saw nothing of her husband. As repeated calls for him failed to chicft a response she become uneasy and went in search of Policeman Flynn. That officer searched the house and found the dead body of the man suspended from the ceiling by a piece of cord. Before committing the rash act Franklin had taken a bath and put on his good clothes, so as to be ready for burial. The body was cut down by the officer. A letter left by the unfortunate man, written in German,

My Dear Brother-in-law Kurtz and Brother Andrew: It is time for me to die and leave this world. All I ask is a good funeral. I de not suit my wife any longer, therefore she will no longer be bothered with me in this life. As long as I had money all was right, but now I have no money all is wrong. Notify Herr Richt as soon as you find me dead. His address is No. 1712 7th street northwest. Farewell to all. JOHN FRANKLIN.

On the other side of the paper was written: What property I have sell, although it is but little. Keep the proceeds to remember me by. My wife can sell it and have the money.

The affair completely prostrated Mrs. Frank-

Coroner Patterson was notified, and after in vestigating the affair decided that an inque was unnecessary and gave a certificate of death yesterday. It was a great event in point of in accordance with the facts.

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE HOUSE ON THE MARSH" will have its initial performance at Albaugh's Grand Opera House next week, commencing Monday, September 5. This play was dramatized from Florence Warden's novel of the same name by Mr. Mervyn Dallas in England, where it had a long run of 1,276 consecutive nights and 271 matinees. Mr. Dallas presents a fascinating portrayal of the master robber, Gerald Ragnor, altas Jim Woodface. The play is in four acts and briefly eketched. The plot is the unmasking of Jim Woodface, a burglar, who after being forced to fly from America carries on his trade in England under the disguise of a country magistrate with a place of his own. "The Al ders," the house on the marsh. The play has many melodramatic situations, and the opportunity for scenic effects is fully improved. Mr. Dallas will be supported by a strong company that have a good reputation. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

WILD PITCHING AND ERRORS. The Washingtons Drop Another Game St. Louis.

The Washingtons hit hard enough to win two games yesterday, but the box was fatally weak and men sent to first on balls brought in their scores. Under the rules these runs are not earned and, therefore, do not appear in the score chargeable to the pitcher. The players who are charged with six errors are consequently blamed for the ten unearned runs of the twelve made by St. Louis. The local players have suffered more or less all this season from poor work in the box, which the tabulated score has failed to reveal. The Washingtons too, made more than their fair share of the errors yesterday. Six is too many. As to the runs-this is how Washington was beaten. Caruthers first on balls and took third or Brodie's hit past Richardson, Radford muffing the throw to catch him.

How Every One Can Decorate. To the Editor of The Evening Star:

During the approaching encampment of the Grand Army the city will no doubt be in a blaze of glory. Decorations will be grand and profuse. It will be expected of all who are able that that they will in some measure decorate their premises. But I want to suggest another plan of decoration which will heighten other plan of decoration which will heighten the effect and can be participated in by every individual at a trifling cost. Let every citizen of every age, color or sex not otherwise deco-rated with national emblems procure a minia-ture flag and wear it on the left breast. What a thrill of delight it will send through the glorious insignia of freedom to see it so uni-

One told me I would have to go off to some healing springs to get well. I saw your advertisement and wrote to you over a year ago. A young friend of mine was going to New Orleans, I.a., at the time, and I sent by him to bring me back some of the CUTICURA by him to bring me back some of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. He bought two boxes CUTICURA, two cakes CUTICURA SOAP and one bottle CETICURA RESOLVENT. I must thank God for your CUTICURA REMEDIES coming to my relief. I am now today a well man; my neck, shoulders and arms are as smooth as they ever were. I have had good health over these I commenced to use the CUTICURA since I commenced to use the CUTICURA REMEDIES. RAILBOAD PLANS TALKED ABOUT.

The rumors that the Pennsylvania Railros Company will take part in the construction of the Mo ant Vernon Electric railway are declared by the officers of the W., A. and Mt. V. R. R. Co. to be untrue. Certainly no negotiations on that subject have advanced beyond preliminary suggestions. The rumor probably arose from the fact that the roadbed of the electric road is thought by some observers to have been con-structed of a width sufficient for a steam railstructed of a width sufficient for a steam rail-way, coupled with the fact that some time ago a Mount Vernon railway charter was obtained for a connection with the Pennsylvania route on Henry street, and that the enter-prise had been stopped because it was found impossible to obtain the right of way on Henry street south of Duke street. The reason for the refusal was that it was then designed if pos-sible to rid Henry street of railway tracks and sible to rid Henry street of railway tracks and to confine the railway lines to Fayette street; but by the recent contract between the city council and the Pennsylvania Railroad Com-pany nearly all of Henry street has been dedicated to railway tracks "forever." The former reason, therefore, ceases, and a connection could very well be made with the electric road ch, it is said, will be constructed o ufficient strength to carry a sixty-ton engine.
t seems not unlikely that sooner or later the Pennsylvania railroad may shorten its Quantico line by a route that will touch the margin of Mount Vernon. PUBLIC SCHOOL MATTERS. The issue of permits for the entry of white record of all previous issues of permits has been broken, and a larger number issued than Interpreted by a carefully selected company of metro ever before. The issue of permits to the colored schools will begin tomorrow and be continued for two days. Then the issue of permits will be suspended until Monday, Sep-tember 12, after which time permits will be issued each Monday morning until next June. ORIGINAL SCENERY. The public schools will open next Monday. MUCH WORK STILL TO BE DONE There is a very considerable amount of work PATTLE OF GETTYSBURG. yet to be done on the Mount Vernon electric road, and, although the work is being pressed vigorously forward and timber to complete the bridge has now arrived, yet there has been some children into the public schools has been con-unavoidable delays that may postpone the com-pletion of the work to a time beyond the middle of September. The delays grew somewhat out of the fact that transportation in the immediate section to be occupied by the railway is still primitive.
